

The Federal Communications Commission

Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

I do not want to pay more for my telephone service! I urge you to reject a flat fee proposal that would change how contributions are made to the Universal Service Fund. I am concerned that this proposal could make my current service unaffordable.

Under the flat fee proposal you are considering, people who make few long distance calls would pay the same as people or businesses that make many calls. In other words, low-volume and primarily residential customers would bear the same universal service fund burden as a high-volume residential or business customers. This is unfair!

I use my wireless phone for safety, security and convenience. I don't want to lose these benefits so that big businesses can pay less than their fair share. I urge you to reject the proposal to move the USF collection system to a flat-fee.

I am 52 years old. My employment status ranges from unemployed to tenuous. I use pre-paid TRAC Fone rather than monthly plans that are quite expensive. Also, the regular plans have discount usage times that are late in the evening. I don't want that. Please leave the pre-paid low usage cell phones as they are for those in society that are trying to figure out how to improve our earning positions. I wish I had a job in which I made a lot of money. However, that just isn't working out right now for a lot of reasons. Please do not remove my TRAC Fone. I use it for security and for times when it is much more convenient for me to call on a cell phone than to try to find a pay phone.

Keep the USF Fair!

Sincerely,

Chris Wisecup
